Two concerts of rare merits were given at the Barre opera house yesterday afternoon and last evening by Victor's Royal Venetian band, from the White Entertainment Bureau of Boston. The musicians were under the masterful direction of Callatty Victor. Miss Madeline Louvie of New York appeared as soprano soloist and each time was called upon for an encore. While the band was also often called upon for additional to the programme. The Italian people turned out in large numbers, but the rest of musical Barre did not seem to realize the grand opportunity to hear a splendid programme.
